Innovations for long-term reliable flat roofs

Integrated flat roof solutions are key

Choosing the right product will be essential for the longevity of the flat roof. A flat roof requires long-term proven integrated product systems, inter alia to ensure professional flashing against other construction elements. This means professional handling and joining of proven materials according to their properties.

All alwitra waterproofing products share a common feature: At the flashing area, they are equipped with a flashing strip / tape / connecting flange made of the same material as the waterproofing membrane itself, making for a reliable and homogeneous flashing against the waterproofing membranes.

- Homogeneous seam connection by hot air or solvent welding
- No cross-linking, thus permanently weldable
- Products meet all relevant standards

alwitra specialises in flat roofs. For us, the extraordinary has become the standard, providing the basis for a long-term reliable flat roof in both materials and handling.
